Chapter 1 — A Kid With a Dream

Once upon a time, there was a boy named Supermatt241 who loved video games and making people smile. When he was only 11 years old, he started making YouTube videos in 2017. He played games like Minecraft and Roblox after school and uploaded fun videos for anyone to watch on his old and slow laptop. At first, things were not easy. The idea of making videos online was such a new thing. Only was happening for a short time.

Supermatt241 did not have the knowledge, the proper technology to stream or make videos. He had to find free softwares to even record his videos with a watermark. His friends also made youtube channels but would put supermatt241 down everyday. They would compare them selves to big youtubers by making challenge videos, trends while Matt was just trying to get into the groove with videos. It was hard starting from the bottom up with no prior knowledge.

People would make comments about his voice and let him know that his videos were low quality and not edited well. Supermatt241 still wanted to make fun videos for his friends and family as he imagined himself to be just like the big gaming youtubers. He did not really care what people had to say and if anything leaned into the hate and drama and advanced with making his videos.

A small problem that supermatt241 had was he did not have many views on his videos that took him all day to film and upload. So he would go into gaming servers and tell people to subscribe. He ended up getting 30- 60 subs and to a 11 year old that is the world. He worked hard for every sub he got. Which made him appreciate everyone who took time out of there day to watch him. This was the first step for Matt to be on the path of streaming.

Some people online were rude and left mean comments. A few friends didn't understand his dream and would sometimes make jokes about his videos. Matt also didn't have fancy equipment or expensive editing programs like big creators did. He had limited knowledge about editing videos, thumbnails, and streaming. Sometimes the quality wasn't perfect, and sometimes things went wrong while recording. Sometimes uploads would take hours to post. Just for it to get 5 views which can be the most demotivating thing ever. Especially that a young creator like himself compared himself to the big streamers and creators. He put pressure on himself to be better.

There were moments when Matt felt embarrassed or discouraged. But every time he thought about quitting, he remembered why he started in the first place: He loved creating. He loved gaming and he loved making people happy. So instead of giving up, Matt kept learning little by little every day. He watched tutorials. He saw how much fun his very favourite creators were having and wanted a pieace of that as well. This is what Matt wanted to do at this young age.

He practiced editing and then he improved his videos one upload at a time. At first, only a few people watched his channel. That didn't stop him. "Every big creator starts somewhere," Matt would say with a smile:))) Which made Matt stand out since he kept a positive mindset. When your coming up you have to focus on other aspects other then just views. Even though it's really difficult to ignore such big accolades like views, subs and engagement. You have to keep pushing no matter what. Sitting and thinking could set you back for years.

Chapter 2 — Fortnite Adventures

In 2018, Matt discovered Fortnite. He loved the fast games, funny moments, and exciting victories. Soon, he started streaming Fortnite online after school whenever he could. At the time, Supermatt241 was only 13 years old. While many kids his age were simply playing games for fun, Matt was learning how to build a community and grow a channel from almost nothing.

He didn’t have a big team helping him. He didn’t have advertisements or famous creators shouting him out. So he came up with his own strategy. Matt would spend hours meeting other small creators online, supporting their channels, and doing “sub for sub” with people who also dreamed of growing on YouTube. The thing is this method was look down upon. People in Matts school would call him names for this, saying he wasted his time. Claming all his subs were either “sub botted.” Or were not going to stick around.

Whenever he streamed, he would invite people to join his live streams and welcome every new viewer with excitement and kindness. Little by little, more people started showing up. Some stayed for the gameplay. Matt would stream for less then 2 hours but would pull 350 views plus average 15 viewers which was crazy for a kid his age. Imagine being in grade 8 one day and the next you have hundreds of people watching you. Crazy to think about. At that young of a age it was hard for Matt to keep up and he burned out.

Others stayed because Matt made everyone feel included. Even when only a few viewers watched, Matt treated every stream like it was the biggest show in the world. He stayed energetic. He stayed positive. And most importantly... He never stopped believing his channel could become something special. Some days one person would come but that was enough for Matt. If anything it made the streams feel closer and most lively for the few who were there. A true interactive experience that most streamers could not provide .

Then one amazing day, all the hard work finally paid off. Supermatt241 reached 1,000 subscribers at only 13 years old. Matt could hardly believe it. To him, it felt like proof that his dream was possible. “This is only the beginning,” he said with a huge smile. Deep down, he knew he was just getting started. There was huge journey ahead. What the young Matt did not realize yet that it was not going to be easy. At the time Matt thought hitting 1000 subs meant he made it. He would be wrong and a lot of learning to be done.

Chapter 3 — The Quiet Years

From 2019 to 2022, Matt didn't post very much. Supermatt241 spent a lot of time focusing on high school, studying for classes, and thinking about his future. After long school days, he loved relaxing and playing NBA 2K with his friends. He got really good at balancing online classes and dominating randoms in 2K. It become so easy and entertaining to him. He did not think about streaming or posting. Deeming it was something he did when he was in middle school.

Even though he wasn't osting many videos anymore, aming was still a huge part of
is life. Sometimes, late at night,
Matt would think about his old treams and YouTube videos. He emembered the excitement of oing live. The funny Fortnite noments. The kind messages rom viewers. Commonly his old iewers would come to his omments and ask when his next ve and video was. To be honest
Matt did not have a clear answer.
ll he would put together was naybe. "Or soon I will post." That nswer was not good enough to eep those viewers.

The dream he once had of becoming one of the biggest streamers in the world. As the years passed, that dream started to feel very far away. There were moments when Matt wondered if he had missed his chance. He felt that it was better to focus on sports like basketball, school and other life goals then taking a huge risk on being a streamer. At the end of the day how many Canadian teens even got to close to being a YouTuber in the 2010s?

Maybe people had forgotten about Supermatt241. Maybe it was too late to come back. Deep inside his heart, the dream never disappeared. It was still there quietly waiting. Every time he watched streamers online... Every time he loaded into a game... Every time someone asked, “Are you ever going to stream again?”...That little spark inside him grew stronger. The chance to try again became bigger and bigger everyday with more and more people doing content creation.

Matt realized something important: Dreams don’t disappear just because life gets busy. Sometimes they simply wait for the right moment to return. With that being said soon... Supermatt241 would make the biggest comeback of his life. He did not know when or how he would return. Seeing people grow and blow up over night was always itching away at Matt and he knew that he had huge potential to grow and be a creator too.

He saw how different social media became from 2018- 2023. Shorts and short form videos were not the norm in 2018. Matt tried longform with mutiple different videos and it failed everytime. He said with a smirk maybe these shorts will be different. The thing is he did not actually think it was going to work. The odds of randomly popping off a dead channel to viral is extremly low after all. Matt tried anyways as he had the whole summer to tackle this goal. It was his last big shot as after that summer he was off to college.

Chapter 4 — The Big Return

In 2023, Supermatt241 returned to streaming Fortnite again. This time at 17 and finished highschool, this time, he came back with a new level of motivation and determination. Matt knew the internet had changed while he was away, so he started learning about new ways creators were growing online. Matt did not have time with college around the corner to think will this work? He just started going full swing on shorts and streams. By the end of the summer (2023) He grew 2000 Subs.

That's when he discovered YouTube Shorts. At first, Matt wasn't sure if short videos would help his channel. But instead of ignoring the trend, he decided to study it and work harder than ever before. Every single day, Supermatt241 started posting up to 10 YouTube Shorts daily. Even though posting so many shorts seemed so bizarre and far fetched it was his way of boosting views on streams and gaining subscribers after being stuck at 1k subs for over 5 years. To him getting the attention was such a huge motivational booster.

- Funny Fortnite clips
- Exciting moments
- Trending sound
- Fast edits
- Catchy captions

Matt paid attention to which videos got views and which ones made people subscribe. Some videos got only a few views. Others suddenly exploded overnight. Combing shorts and streams gave him a edge that many did not see quiet yet. Remeber the year was 2023. There was not much on shorts and how to get viral. Which meant less competition.

Whenever a short performed well, thousands of new people discovered Supermatt241 for the very first time. Many of those viewers wanted to see more. So they joined his live streams. Little by little, Matt turned short clips into a growing community. People would watch one funny Fortnite moment... Which would make them curious enough to watch the rest of his content. This was the exposure that Matt always wanted. All because of a few 2k and Fortnite shorts snow balled into a new era for the young streamer.

Then end up staying for an entire stream because they loved Matt's energy and positivity. Day after day, Matt stayed consistent. Even when he was tired. Even when videos flopped. Even when growth felt slow. He kept uploading. He knew that 1 viewer or 100 viewers he had to show up for the best community in the world. The same community who backed him when he was sick or supported him when he was sad and going through dark periods in his life.

He kept streaming and eventually, all the hard work started paying off in a huge way. His streams became busier. His community became stronger. And more people than ever before began believing in Supermatt241's dream. This time, he streamed more often from anywhere from 3 hours to 6 hours daily. Matt realized that streaming more often and longer got his streams alot more engagement. So he kept it up. Matt made it a misson to stream everyday, post 10 shorts a day while balancing 6-7 College Classes.

Supermatt241 also started using the word called “Sugar Plum” or Holy Sugar Plums. What the word came about or orgin of use was to be used instead of swearing or as a act of being suprised. Matt started using it as his Mom also known as Super Mama, would commonly say it in the house when Matt was young. Along with Sugar Pops and Fudgical Sticks. Matt made the Sugar Plums into stickers, sayings and images.

Whenever someone felt sad in chat, Matt encouraged them. Whenever someone won a game, Matt celebrated with them. His community became like one big online family. Soon, more and more people discovered his streams. Even verified and big streamers discovered him. He had chats of people chanting his name. Asking him to play, for a 1v1 and comically for gifts and fashion shows. Either way it showed the dedication people went through to get into his matches.

By 2024...

Supermatt241 reached 50,000 subscribers!

Right Before Halloween Supermatt241 hit 50K Subs. In Early December of 2024 he released and published his creative map supermatt241 1v1 FFA it was a big success the first month pulling hundreds of players which was another dream for Matt. He wanted to be internet famous and to create something that people can play was a cherry on top for sure.

Chapter 5 — 100,000 Strong

At the end of 2025, something incredible happened. Supermatt241 reached... 100,000 For Matt, this wasn't just a number. It was a childhood dream coming to life. Ever since he was 11 years old, he imagined what it would feel like to hit 100K subscribers. He went from a person who had 1k subs for 5 years to hitting 100k 2 years after streaming consistently again. He thought what a story and inspiration this is.

A friend from when he was 11 told him he would never hit it. Matt used that saying as fuel. Matt remembers like it was yesterday when he said he was doing a face reveal at 100k and his best friend told him it would never happen. He used to picture it while editing videos, streaming late at night, and watching other creators grow, now it was real. People from all over the world were watching his content. His name was being shared in Discord servers, TikTok clips, and live streams.

His community was growing stronger every day, but for Matt, the meaning of this milestone went even deeper. He often thought about life and legacy—not in a sad way, but in a determined way. He never wanted to be remembered as a "what if" story. Not someone people would say, "He had big dreams..." but never finished them. Matt also wanted to show that anyone can accomplish there goals if they just try hard enough but also add a bit of luck and grit within.

Matt wanted something different. He wanted to be the person who actually did it. The guy who didn't give up when things got hard. The creator who kept going even when growth slowed, platforms changed, or challenges showed up. When it came to streaming there was a lot of challenges and sacrifice. for one you have to stream everyday and Matt was doing 3-6 hours on average. That means social life and building connections get left behind. Matt learned the importance of balance through these times.

Someone who followed through on what he believed in. As to him, success wasn't just about fame or numbers. It was about action. It was about proving to himself that his dreams weren't just thoughts—they were something he could build with time, effort, and consistency. When that 100,000 subscriber milestone finally arrived, Matt felt proud... but also grounded. Feeling a mix of humbled but also like yeahhhh.... I earned this!!!!

He knew this wasn't the end of the journey. It was proof that everything he had done—every upload, every stream, every setback, every comeback—had mattered. Instead of stopping there, Supermatt241 made a promise to himself: "This is only the beginning of what I'm going to become." Just showing that the potential he was given. The dreams he thought about. The chance to be great is all possible in not just as Supermatt241 but everyone who thought it too.

Chapter 6 — A Difficult Moment and hardships

To many people watching the streams, Supermatt241 looked like someone who was always positive, energetic, and ready to entertain. Every time he went live, he tried to make people laugh, feel welcome, and forget about the stress in their lives for a little while. Behind the screen, things were not always easy. As his community started to grow, so did the challenges that came with it.

It wasn't all smiles and sunshine though there were moments when people pretended to support him, only to use him for popularity and attention. Some viewers acted like friends when the cameras were on, but behind the scenes they only cared about growing their own names. Matt did not quite realise in his young mind that people might be using him to take a step forward in there own journey. He loved helping other creators but did not see the potential negatives quite yet.

On multiple occasions, Supermatt241 felt betrayed by people he trusted. It hurt deeply because he always tried to see the good in others. Not every person he met online had good intentions either. At one point, he encountered someone who acted friendly at first, but later showed creepy and uncomfortable behavior that made him feel unsafe. It became a reminder that not everyone on the internet is honest, and that creators sometimes face situations people outside streaming never even think about. Something Matt always talks about is being careful about saying information such as age, school, grade as it can be used by people with bad intentions.

Then there were the technical attacks. During some of his streams, his internet was targeted and disrupted by people trying to ruin his broadcasts. The stress of being disconnected, losing streams, and feeling helpless weighed heavily on him. Streaming was something he loved, yet there were people trying to take that joy away. Even harder than the toxic attacks was the feeling of losing support from parts of his own community. In the streaming world its hard to keep people on a everyday basis let alone whens theres issues and drama.

Some people who once cheered him on suddenly turned their backs on him. Rumors spread, negativity grew, and comments became harsher. For someone who built his platform around positivity and kindness, it was painful to see people he cared about become distant or cruel. There were days when people told him to “get a life” or “grow up.” Matt felt like some people’s whole goals were to make him stop streaming as a whole and streaming felt more like a chore and going through the motions then having genuine enjoyment.

They mocked his dream of streaming and content creation, treating it like it meant nothing. Those words stuck with him more than he liked to admit. Sometimes after the stream ended and the screen went dark, he wondered if he was wasting his time. At only 18 years old, Supermatt241 often trusted streamers and creators who were much older than him. He looked up to people in the streaming world and believed that respect and honesty would be returned.

Sometimes that trust was taken advantage of since few toxic people from his own community, false rumors began spreading about things he never did. Rumors quickly grew online, and instead of hearing him out fairly, some people immediately assumed the worst. For a young creator still learning how to handle pressure on the internet, it was overwhelming. It hurt Matt so bad that he felt sick for weeks and wanted to take everything back even though it was not his fault. He felt the guilt on him 24/7.

When Supermatt241 tried to explain himself and defend the truth, the situation only became more painful. One streamer, who was more than twice his age, responded by yelling at him and threatening him instead of listening. The experience left him feeling shocked, traumatized, isolated. He had entered the streaming world hoping to build friendships and positivity, not to be torn down by older creators who should have known better. Matt learned the hard way that not all people will handle a situation by kindly talking it out.

Things became even more difficult when people crossed personal boundaries and leaked private information online. Instead of keeping drama contained to streams and comments, some people attempted to expose parts of his personal life in order to embarrass and intimidate him. Exposed videos and hateful content were spread around by people looking for reactions and attention, without caring about the emotional damage it caused.

That creative map he made a person stole the idea and started trying to take credit from Matt which did not make him feel good at all. For Supermatt241, it was one of the hardest experiences he had ever faced. Seeing personal information shared publicly made him feel vulnerable and unsafe. He had people watch his streams in silence and then use it against him. Mind you all these things mentioned all happened in a few month span. By the end of it Matt felt finished and completely burned out.

It also showed him how cruel online spaces can become when people stop seeing creators as human beings. Even through all of that, he still continued streaming and trying to create a positive environment for others. While the negativity affected him deeply, he refused to let toxic people completely take away his passion or his voice. Despite the drama, the pressure, and the fear that came with those moments, Supermatt241 kept trying to move forward. He refused to let false rumors define who he was.

Early in 2026, something unexpected happened. Matt's YouTube channel became demonetized. Weirdly enough this did not break Matt. After the all the issues he delt with in 2025 he refused to let 2026 and this incident get under his skin and mess with him. He had a different approach one that no one expected from the streamer. A complete social media switch..A shift thousands of people were either going to have to accept or judge. Both ended up happening as a result.

That meant he could no longer earn money from his videos, even after all the hard work he had put into growing his channel to 100,000 subscribers. There was something else that made the moment even harder. Since he was 11 years old, Matt had dreamed of holding his YouTube Play Button in his hands. That sadly was no longer a reality and a long loss dream. Every kid who wants to get followers wants a accolade or a success praise for it.

It represented everything he had worked for—every late night, every upload, every stream, and every moment he refused to give up. Even after reaching 100,000 subscribers, he still hadn't received it. That dream award was still out of reach. At first, Matt felt disappointed. Felt heart broken. Even cried on stream and showed emotions his viewers never even seen during his darkest days.

He had spent years building his dream. Many people would have accepted it, stopped creating, and moved on forever. Not Supermatt241 as he had a different thought in his mind. Instead of seeing the problem as the end of his journey, he saw it as the beginning of a new adventure. “What if this could make my dream even bigger?” Matt said in the moment “this is part of the story line”.. Irconically giving inspiration to the E book you are currently reading.

Matt wondered, he started thinking about Twitch — a place where he could stream every day, talk with his community live, and build even stronger friendships with his viewers. So instead of giving up... He took a chance. Matt began streaming on Twitch daily. This decision was met with a lot of negative reactions and criticism . “What are you doing?.” “ Leaving 100k for a couple hundred and a dream.” ”Look who ended up quitting.” People found it hilarious that the guy who preached not quitting had left.

- At first, it was scary starting something new again. Would people watch? Would his community follow him? Would his dream still work on a different platform? Matt remembered everything he had learned over the years:
- Stay positive
- Keep working hard
- Never stop believing in yourself
- Know that theres better days ahead.
- Its not quitting its redirecting
- Remember who you are.

Little by little, his community showed up. Fans from YouTube joined his Twitch streams. People invited their friends. His Discord server became more active than ever. Viewers laughed together, played games together, and supported each other every single day. When Matt needed the community the most they showed up and really proved that they are truly one of one. It really goes to show how supportive friends on the internet can be. A full 360 from the previous year.

Soon, Supermatt241 realized something important: Sometimes the hardest moments in life can lead to even bigger opportunities. The challenge that once seemed like the end of his story... Actually became the start of an even greater chapter. If a door closes either another one opens, perhaps a window opens or a new streamer begins a new journey with new viewers and the same old coming around to make sure everyone is getting along just fine.

Chapter 7 — Spreading Positivity Everywhere

Now at 20 years old, Supermatt241 streams every day and continues spreading positivity online. He has:

- A successful Discord server with over 600 members
- Thousands of fans watching his Twitch streams
- Funny clips posted on TikTok
- And his 100,000 subscriber YouTube channel

The thing Matt is most proud of isn't the numbers. It's the community he built. A place where people support each other, stay kind, and never give up. Even today, Matt still doesn't have the fanciest streaming setup. No expensive room. No giant LED lights. No face cam. He jokes all the time about being able to start with the default PlayStation streaming software and not a $5000 PC with plants and a team of people with him. Which alot of beginners do not have access to.

What he does have is something even more important: A dream. A strong will to stream every single day. And an energy so bright it could light up an entire city. People didn't watch Supermatt241 because of flashy equipment. They watched because he was real. He made people laugh. He encouraged others to keep going during hard times. He reminded everyone that kindness can be just as powerful as talent. Most importanly he always read chat, included his viewers in all games and was inclusive to everyone. In todays world its rare to find a streamer with all values.

Every stream became more than just gaming. It became a place where people felt welcome. A place where positivity always mattered most. A place where viewers would pick each other up. Help each other on and off the game. Be a big part of each others days. Building general connections and skills as well. Postivity and kindness from one person ended up going to millions. Matt did not even realize it when he started the journey many years ago.

From a young 11-year-old kid making Minecraft and Roblox videos... to a 20-year-old streamer inspiring thousands of people every day, Matt proved that dreams can grow bigger than anyone imagines when you refuse to quit. His journey was never perfect. There were rude comments, setbacks, quiet years, disappointments, and moments where the dream felt far away. Through every challenge, Supermatt241 kept moving forward. Not because it was easy...

Its because the dream mattered too much to give up on. And even though this book is not finished yet, neither is Matt's story. There are still more streams to create. More people to inspire. More goals to reach. And more dreams waiting ahead. Because sometimes the greatest stories are the ones still being written. So if you ever feel like your dream is impossible, remember Supermatt241. The kid who started with almost nothing but belief, consistency, and positivity. And turned that belief into something real.

The Closing Answer — May 31st

If there is one final answer this story gives to the world, it is this:

Never let fear decide your future.

Dream big. Work hard. Stay kind. No matter how difficult life becomes... Always be ready for the big moment and prepare for anything that gets thrown at you. Never lose hope, stay humble and be postive always. Keep doing your best and soon you will see the hard work pay off.

When you thought it was all over on the way to May 31st, May 25th 2026 Supermatt241 got his monetization back showing to never lose hope in anything in life:)

Supermatt241 got his monetization back. This was a total shock for everyone including Supermatt241. Even though Matt no longer posted he was excited to have the opportunity to have his monetization back and running. His viewers were hyped as well.

Chapter 8 IRL Streams

Supermatt241 started streaming IRL basketball streams in 2025. Due to popular demand from his face reveal video made in 2024. Viewers were ready to see Matt try to do basketball skills and drills in real time. While that was happening Matt found out that his two most viewed streams were from the IRL basketball.

One of the biggest turning points for Supermatt241 was stepping into IRL basketball streams. For a long time, viewers only saw one side of the content through regular streaming setups, but basketball streams changed everything. Suddenly, the audience was no longer just watching from a screen — it felt like they were right there on the court, hearing the sounds of the game, seeing the reactions in real time, and experiencing every moment alongside him..

The IRL basketball streams brought a completely different energy. Instead of only focusing on gaming or sitting behind a desk, viewers got to see movement, competition, laughter, and real-life interactions. It created a much more personal connection because people could see who Supermatt241 was outside of just a streamer title. The streams showed passion for sports, determination, and the fun side of everyday moments that normally would never make it on to a livestream. Showing a different side and element.

For many viewers, it felt more authentic and immersive. Whether it was shooting hoops, joking around between plays, celebrating a good shot, or reacting after a tough game, the streams captured genuine emotions that made the community feel closer than ever. It was almost like hanging out with a friend instead of simply watching content online.

The basketball streams also proved that content did not have to stay in one lane. This showed a different side of creativity and opened the door to a new style of entertainment. By mixing sports, IRL moments, and community interaction together, Supermatt241 created streams that felt fresh, exciting, and memorable. It allowed viewers to connect not only with the creator, but also with the personality, energy, and real experiences behind the camera.

Matt loved showing his viewers crazy spin dunks. Some back story Matt has played basketball since 2019. So he actually started posting a full 2 years before he started playing basketball. None the less he has praticed cool dunks, jumps and tricks for years. Matt wanted to show gym movement too. Matt ended doing a gym stream. Showed his viewers his workouts such as shoulder presses, bicep curls, and pushups.

Chapter 9 Thank You

Dream big. Work hard. Stay kind. And no matter how difficult life becomes...Behind every stream theres a real person with real feelings and emotions, every video, and every milestone, there was one thing Supermatt241 could never have done alone: His community. The viewers who showed up every day. The people who stayed through the highs and lows. The ones who laughed during funny moments, supported during difficult times, and believed in the dream even when it felt impossible.

Matt knew that without them, Supermatt241 would just be a username on a screen. Togther? They became a family, there were viewers who had shown up for over 90 straight days without missing a stream. Some had been following Matt's journey for almost 3 whole years. Others donated so much during streams that the community joked they must secretly be billionaires. Without these loyal viewers it would have been very hard to keep streaming without losing motivation.

The good moments and the difficult ones. The old supporters and the new ones. As every person who clicked on a stream became part of the story. No matter how big Supermatt241 grows in the future, one thing will never change: He will always be grateful for the community that believed in him. Gave him this opportunity and made his goals and dreams become everyone goals and dreams. The truth is that if you put in enough effort and hardwork others will start noticing as well. You might get a good reaction or a bad but stay true to yourself.

Its so nice knowing that people come everday to watch Matts stream. Which has been a dream for over a decade. To have a dedicated audience. It did not come easy though. There was so many hours put in to every stream and event that came with it. Thanks to everyone for sticking with me and being apart of this journey. Thanks as well for buying the book you are currently reading. I believe that each and every one of you have the chance to change the world one day. Chase your dream no matter what it is.

Making this ebook was so much fun I got to add personal stories, live streams fun facts, irl stream, journey, come back story. Quitting and getting back up. Remember to smile and make someones day better and to enjoy yourself. You are a legend and will become a superstar in this world or on mars lol. Keep up the great work and I hope this e book made you learn something new today. Supermatt241 is a community for everyone and will move foward being an open place for all.
